PREACHING ASSESSMENT AND CONGREGATIONAL SUPPORT

(Please copy for all participating in the assessment)

Instructions: The Preaching Assessment is part of the admission process for the Association of Chicago Theological Schools' Doctor of Ministry in Preaching Program. This assessment is to be completed by a group of four to five members of the ministry context who are familiar with the applicant's preaching and should include context leadership/supervisor persons. Gather as a group with the applicant for the assessment process. Please respond to the questions as a group. Useful insights into the particular gifts and needs of the preacher are more readily identified through collaborative assessment. In addition the group has the responsibility to indicate the type of support, both financial and otherwise, the applicant will receive from the congregation/ministry context.

Purpose: The purpose of the program is to help pastors or ministry leaders grow their ministries by becoming more effective preachers. The successful candidate in the program must have a desire to explore and expand their preaching skills. This assessment process seeks candid appraisal and analysis of the applicant's preaching to assess his or her strengths as well as to suggest areas for expansion. Should the applicant be admitted to the program, your assessment will assist him or her in developing learning goals.

Contents: This assessment will also indicate the level of support provided by the ministry, both financial and otherwise, for the applicant's participation in this program. It is the expectation of this program that members of the ministry work closely with and support the applicant's work in the program. For pastors that are admitted to the program, it is important that members of the congregation be aware that your pastor will attend a three-week summer residency in Chicago for three consecutive years. Significant reading, writing, and studying are required to successfully complete the program. It is expected that the members of the ministry will relieve the pastor of some duties in order to make time for program work. The program also involves the creation of a support group within the ministry context to engage and reflect on both the preaching and the program work. It is important that all persons in the ministry context respect and support the work of this reflection group. Finally, it is important that this group also recognizes the financial requirements of the program and commits to such support as appropriate.

Thank you for your willingness to assist the applicant in this important step.

Guidelines for Preaching Assessment Meeting

Please designate one member of the group to lead the discussion and another member to record the discussion. The applicant should not serve in either of these roles. Please type your responses to the questions and include the names of those who participated in the discussion.

Please discuss and provide written answers to the following questions:

1. What strengths as a preacher do you identify in this person?

2. Recognizing that an effective preacher takes the specific ministry context very seriously, what areas of growth would you identify for the congregation/ministry context that would be impacted by enhanced preaching skills?

3. Indicate ways the congregation or ministry leaders will support the applicant in his or her growth through this program. (Suggestions for support include, but are not limited to, taking interest in what the applicant is learning, keeping him/her in prayer, shifting some responsibilities to other members or staff, helping to ensure that adequate time is provided to complete assignments, supplying financial assistance.)

Please return this assessment directly to the applicant. This assessment must be submitted with the full application.
